

New Elections In Israel Cast Cloud of Uncertainty Around Peace Plan

By T.W. Tramm

THE unprecedented call to dissolve Israel's parliament and hold new elections has cast a further cloud of uncertainty around the unveiling of the Trump peace plan.

While peace team members are being silent as to whether the tumultuous events in Israel will further delay the rollout of the political component of the Deal of the Century, former U.S. Ambassador to Israel, Dan Shapiro, has said, "The Trump plan is on ice" adding, "It's entirely possible we will never see the plan."

What does this latest turn of events portend for a peace plan that prophecy watchers see as part of a final stage-setting for the end of the age?

It's too early to tell for sure. However, the more the deal-of-the-century saga plays out, the more it's looking like the Trump plan may indeed not be seen unless or until some shocking or world-changing event alters the political landscape to such a degree that "peace and security"—not politics or elections—becomes the priority.

Nonetheless, if the Deal of the Century is part of a final stage setting as believed, its purpose has been served. Paul's forewarning sign to the Church about people saying "peace and security" has manifest (1 Thess. 5). The "trump" has been sounded; the call has gone out to the wakeful to get ready and to warn the sleeping that Judgment Day is at hand.

Scripturally, nothing else need occur before the "last trump" sounds and the dead and living in Christ are caught up into the clouds to meet the Lord (1 Cor. 15:52).

Perhaps in the chaotic aftermath of this awesome event some offshoot of Trump's peace plan, or a plan devised by another party, will be proposed and implemented.

This is one possibility.

It's also possible that yet another unforeseen political twist or turn will result in the unveiling or implementation of a peace plan sooner.

The bottom line: stay ready, be hopeful, and expect the unexpected.

Jesus is coming soon.
