

Trump's Peace-Plan Reveal and the Flood of Noah

By T.W. Tramm

WHEN will the Trump Administration's much anticipated Middle-East peace plan be revealed?

It depends.

According to reports, if Israel holds early elections, possibly in November, Trump will wait to reveal the plan. If Israel's elections remain on schedule for next year, however, the peace plan will be rolled out sooner.

While a decision has not yet been made, the latest reports from Israel make an early election seem unlikely. This means, if pundits are correct, the Deal of the Century will be rolled out sooner than later.

With the reveal date of Trump's peace plan still a mystery, it's interesting to note that the Bible gives three explicit clues about the timing of the Rapture:

"No one knows the day or hour" (Matt. 24:36).

"It will be just like it was in Noah's day" (Matt. 24:37).

"People will be saying 'peace and safety'" (1 Thess. 5:3).

Noah and his family boarded the ark in the middle of the biblical month of Cheshvan (October/November) and disembarked about a year later in the same month of Cheshvan.

The Trump Administration began drafting its peace plan in November (Cheshvan) 2017, and will likely unveil it sometime between late November (Cheshvan) and January.

No man knows the day, but the season of Noah's Flood is upon us, and people are saying peace and safety.

So keep watch!

NOTES:

*Noah boarded the ark on the 17th day of Cheshvan, and the flood waters were upon the earth seven days later (Gen. 7). Assuming the modern Jewish calendar is off by a month in 2018, Cheshvan 17 corresponds to November 26.

*The first reports that the Trump Administration had begun drafting a peace plan emerged November 11, 2017, corresponding to Cheshvan 22 on the biblical calendar.

*On September 26, 2018 Trump vowed to reveal the plan within 2 to 4 months. September 26 + 2 months = November 26/Cheshvan 17.
